SENTO

Seemingly weightless yet projecting an inherent strength; the design team of Angeletti Ruzza have beautifully conveyed both of these qualities with their new Sento faucet collection for GRAFF.

Daniele Ruzza and Silvana Angeletti are known for designing objects stripped to their essentials, and with the Sento, they've created a collection that stands with the best.

Function without excess is another hallmark of their design aesthetic and again, in this collection they've re-imagined all the elements of faucet design to give birth to an elegant and wholly contemporary collection.

The simplicity of the faucet is exemplified in its willingness to be stripped of any decorative or seemingly useless design details. It is as a discrete and elegant presence in any space.

"The overall idea of this project – as stressed by Daniele Ruzza and Silvana Angeletti – was to propose a complete system that meets the needs of our daily life, which is made up of multifunctional and versatile objects. It is the representation of the ideal environment which in the end reflects our simple but essential wishes."

The collection is made of 15 faucet elements and a full selection of accessories available in: plated chrome, black and white finish.

SENTO is available in chrome, white and black finish, with the white and black having a matt texture developed with powder coating treatment.

"I can definitely assess that the cooperation with angeletti ruzza design has been characterized by a strong synergy among design, market, technique and engineering. This collection is the successful result of a careful analysis which enabled us to introduce a product, which perfectly meets the market trends and the needs of international contexts, where the GRAFF product is presented". These are the words uttered by Emanuela Tavolini, Director of Sales Europe at GRAFF, a careful and dynamic manager who has believed since the beginning in the partnership GRAFF/angeletti ruzza design, being aware that the features of their design studio are an important added value for an international company like GRAFF.

GRAFF
